

First Aid Training for School Pupils

At First Response Training, we firmly believe that life-saving first aid skills and knowledge, and the confidence to use them in an emergency situation, are absolutely invaluable; first aid is an important subject for anyone to learn.

That's why we have developed a number of flexible, tailored training options to enable schools to offer first aid training to their pupils.

Please see below for an outline of our different first aid training options for both primary and secondary school pupils, and contact us to discuss your requirements...
